WHY LINCOLN LIVES

THERE WAS TRUE PROPHECY
in the whispered words which Stanton uttered as he turned from the deathbed of Lincoln to the stricken group nearby, "Now he belongs to the ages."

He was the man of his time, yet a man of all times.
Each passing year adds a serener lustre to his fame;
each generation of his countrymen turns with greater reverence to the sublime story of his life and death.

Mourned by the nation almost as children mourn for a father, he lives today a greater Presence than when he walked among men; the spirit of his teachings shines before us as shone the miraculous sign that led the children of Israel. Tomorrow, all over the land, his name and his work will be honored with ever increasing reverence. Even those who have forgotten or misconstrued his words will pay lip service to his memory.

Why does Lincoln more truly live today than at any time since his death? Why is the figure of his nobility greater in stature now than in years gone by? Why is it that as his living presence recedes in the mists of history and his great acts lose their sharp outlines in the glamour of tradition his soul goes marching on to rising songs of national veneration?

The romance of his rise from obscurity to power does not explain it. His wisdom and courage and genius in war do not explain it. Even his martyrdom does not explain it. The figure of this man has grown since his death, and will grow with the coming years, because he found truth and uttered it; because out of his great, simple heart welled words which in clear terms voiced the imperishable principles of justice and liberty.

Until the supreme test came no man seemed less likely to become a hero to future ages. His education was pitifully meagre. In business he made no mark, in law, he left no enduring record.

Defeated after a single term in Congress; defeated for the Senate; uncouth in person, slow of thought and speech, he gave no sign that in that rugged, homely frame there lay the soul of a prophet and a seer; that he would come to typify principles which more than a half century after his death would sway the destinies of the nation and inspire a newly born patriotism.

In his day men were strong partisans. They thought much, but lacked the means of ready communication which now helps to bind the nation into one force.
Newspapers were few and weak. Leaders meant much to the people. From the turmoil of his debates with Douglas, Lincoln emerged as a man of mark. In time the policies and aspirations which he represented became personified in him.

When his party failed to meet the great problems of the time, he joined that which had been formed to fulfill the mission. He was elected president and with surpassing genius administered that office through the darkest period of the nation's history.

Sneered at by his associates, resisted and assailed by generals he sent into the field, ridiculed abroad and denounced by enemies at home, his faith and patience and understanding carried him and his country through peril unequalled to nationhood of great promise.

These achievements, it is true, make Lincoln one of the world's heroes. They secure to him a fame beside which that of Napoleon is the merest tinsel. But they do not make clear the reasons why his memory takes upon it new grandeur with each succeeding year, why he becomes to each succeeding generation a mightier and more revered figure of inspiration.

He conducted a great war and saved the nation. He declared a race free and enforced his decision against armies in the field and doubters at home. Finally he fell at his post by assassination, achieving that kind of renown which is enough almost to place the most mediocre of men among the nation's heroes.

His fame has had for years, the eager assistance of a large number of people who knew him when he lived and have remained to celebrate his greatness, some even to the present day. He had a closer hold upon the people of his time than any other man. His homely wisdom, his tender kindness, his rugged simplicity, his courage in defeat and his sobriety in victory—to these qualities thousands have borne testimony.

Yet we say that not in his wise administration, not in his conduct of the greatest war of modern times, except perhaps the recent world war, not even in the heroic sacrifice of his death, is to be found an adequate explanation of the power of his name today.

Other men have been faithful and competent in the presidency. Other men have fallen by assassination, and their memories are held in tender regard by the people whom they served. But Abraham Lincoln earned the immortality which is his, long before his martyrdom commanded it.

Why is the veneration of his name greater now, after the lapse of nearly sixty years, than at any other time?
Because he laid down the simple, deathless truths by which a republic can live; because his great soul drew to him the unspoken aspirations of his countrymen, and he uttered them with the inspiration of a prophet; because he gave currency and vigor to the fundamental principles of the rights of humanity, which will lead men when generations yet to come are turned to dust.

So it was with One greater than Lincoln. He, too, was despised, had a brief triumph, found the crown of martyrdom. Yet because He spoke and taught that which was Truth, His work endures.

Since His death mighty nations have arisen and crumbled, and their history can be traced only in broken monuments and tumbled ruins. For they were founded upon principles which were false. But after more than nineteen hundred years His cause still goes on conquering its way, and uncounted millions pay homage to the Truth as He taught it centuries before our nation's history began.

So it will be, in a human way, with Abraham Lincoln. A hundred years hence the people and their children will know Lincoln as well as we know him.
They will venerate his great character, they will praise his statesmanship and his sacrifice. But chiefly they

B. C. I. C. DANCE FEB. 25.

The Boulder Creek Improvement Club will give another of its popular dances in Middleton's Hall, Saturday evening, Feb. 25th. This time it will take form as a comical calico and paper ball and judging by the success of the Club's past efforts will prove a most enjoyable and successful affair.

CARD PARTY FEB. 17TH

At the New Alpine Hotel at 8 p.m. sharp a Card Party will be given, the proceeds from which will go toward fixing up dressing rooms for ladies and gentlemen at the local swimming pool. 50 cents each. All welcome. Rally up for the community Friday evening, February 17th.

STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION TAKES OVER ROADS

On February first the California Highway Commission took over the Boulder Creek and Redwood Park road, thus relieving our county of this burden. The route selected takes in the original Park road to the tank and watering trough about half way up the mountain above Sequoia.

Then it follows the cut-off road from this point to the county road at the Newlin ranch on the edge of the Big Basin. Thence along this road to the edge of the Park, connecting with the Park highway at that point.

The total length of road taken over is 8 2-10 miles. Pending permanent arrangements for the maintenance and improvement of this road it has been placed temporarily under the care of Foreman W. S. Rodgers of the Park highways.

THE DENATURED BEE

"Bees are not boozers, but they knew no better than to feed on the fermented dumpings from breweries and distilleries, and prohibition has helped them physically, if not morally."
—Allen Latham, President Connecticut Bee Keepers' Association.
How doth the well-known busy bee
Improve each shining minute?
By dodging the distillery
And all the stuff that's in it.
From waterlily cup he sips,
And buzzes on, contented;
Nor ever on his journey dips
In brewery dump, fermented.
So should he light upon your brow,
On exploration bent,
Be undisturbed; his sting is now
But half of one per cent.

PERSONALS

Mr. James Beeson has decided to go into business in the far north. A trip to Alaska is contemplated.

A. C. Sweeney's new orchestral piano has arrived and is an added attraction to the movie theatre.

Mr. and Mrs. Barker have returned to Boulder Creek.

Fatper O'Brien was called to Santa by the death of a favorite niece.

Mrs. Arthur Waters returned to her home here last Sunday.

Mr. Lily is on the sick list.

Mr. S. A. Brown and family of San Jose motored to Boulder Creek Sunday to visit his sisters, Mrs. Purinton and Mrs. Johnson.

IMPROVEMENT CLUB MEETS

Regular meeting of the Improvement Club convened as usual although the inclement weather kept most of our usual members away. However, as there were seven present we had a meeting just the same.

There was no important business transacted with such a few out, but there was some discussion on subjects of town needs, etc. Remember that our next meeting is a Get-together in any kind of weather. Storm or no storm this second meeting of every month is just as regular as your meals.

PRINTING

As a Method of Teaching

ENGLISH

A well-known educator once remarked—"I can teach English better in a print-shop than in a classroom." Why not? English teaches the application of language principles according to established forms. The composition of letters, words, clauses and sentences into an understandable and well-planned whole is the major work of a print-shop. Surely such a method of instruction is superior to that of having pupils learn the lesson "by heart," recite it in "parrot-like" fashion—and then—forget they ever learned it.

Printing affords an application of the rules of grammar. It is more legible than writing and is the form in which literature is mostly known. Handwriting has been superseded by the printing press and the typewriter.

Modern educators recognize that fact and are installing printing outfits in their elementary and secondary schools.

SNOW IN CALIFORNIA.

"It snows," cries the schoolboy, "Hurray" and his shout
Is ringing thru the parlor and hall,
And swift as the wings of an eagle
he's out
And his schoolmates have answered his call.

A boy's viewpoint of our recent snow fall, and incidentally newspaper reporting:

"I ask as a special favor, please put this item in the paper, because I have written thirty nine and one half items but not one half of them have gotten as far as the printing office door.

On January 31, 1922, when the students of B.C.U.H.S. arrived for their day of toil and to learn lots of things, the ground was covered with snow to a depth of five inches(?) in places.

Each pupil declared war on the other. As a result of this "war" a riot call was sent to the police, who brought riot squads, but were unable to handle the uprising so they summoned the fire engines and all the ambulances in the city, but even they could not handle the fight.

Finally as time drew on the combatants were played out and had to quit. A flock of sailors were pitted against the pupils. Needless to say the boys won out, as in all the fights, because we were right as we always are. But some people cannot see it that way.

Several members of the enemy were peevish when we hit them with a cannon balls of snow.

By this time Moving Picture Companies had heard of the fight and had sent a camera man to take moving pictures (and they had to be moving) but they did not get a picture of the "General", he being very conspicuous by his absence.

The pictures are to appear later in the High School Annual.

Community Mention.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Church will entertain the members of the Church and its friends at a Valentine Social, Thursday, February 16th at the Church from 2.30 to 5 p.m. Mr. Colburn sing a group of songs.

Much Boulder Creek local news has to go over until next week. Storm delays and others make completion of type setting impossible.

The basket ball season is over for this year and the B. C. U. H. S. boys and girls are turning to other activities. The boys are already enthusiastic in baseball and the girls also hope to have a team this year.

Also the Tennis court is becoming popular.

Monday, the B. C. U. H. S. had a clean-up day. During the Physical Education period the boys did some good work clearing away loose brush which had accumulated.

P.T.A. MEETING

Parent Teachers held a splendid meeting at Library Wed. afternoon. The County President Mrs Helms was with us, and gave a very pleasing talk on the work of the P. T. A. and how they are helping those who need it, both financially and thru the Salvage shop. There were 18 present and refreshments were served at the close of the business social hour. The work of the P. T. A. is not generally understood. It is to help in any line of school work where necessary and to help any who are needy. Very often they furnish glasses to those unable to pay, for the dental work when urgently needed, doctors aid, clothes, food, in short, they try to lighten the burdens where they press the hardest and also shed some sunshining along the way.

SCHOOL FOR FATHERS AND MOTHERS

New York school children are glowing with the knowledge that there is poetic justice in the world, for a school for parents, possibly the first and only one in United States, opened in that city last week, with Phillip W. L. Cox acting headmaster. In nine succeeding sessions fathers and mothers will be told of the general aims of education in American schools.

SILK STOCKINGS, SHORT SKIRTS BAN IN SCHOOL

In Arroy Grande High School, strict regulations as to the clothing to be worn by girl students went into effect last week.

The regulations provided that the neck of blouse must not be cut too low and the skirt must be of modest length. Paint on face is banned and powder will be used sparingly. Hair must be dressed in a plain, girlish fashion and silk stockings are strictly under the ban.

The uniform which will be worn by the girls hereafter is blue pleated skirts, white middies, ornamented with blue collars and cuffs.

will remember that he uttered forth to the world those things which will be true then as they are true now, and as they were true in his day.

"This country, with its institutions, belongs to the people who inhabit it. Whenever they shall grow weary of the existing government, they can exercise the constitutional right of amending it, or their revolutionary right to dismember or overthrow it." x x x

"Why should there not be a patient confidence in the ultimate justice of the people? Is there any better or equal hope in the world? If the Almighty Ruler of nations, with His eternal truth and justice, be on your side or on ours, that truth and justice shall truly prevail, by the judgment of this great tribunal of the American people." x x x

"That is the real issue. It is the eternal struggle between these two principles—right and wrong—throughout the world. They are the two principles that have stood face to face from the beginning of time, and will ever continue to struggle. The one is the common right of humanity and the other the divine right of kings." x x x

"Regardless of party names and party doctrines, while man exists it is his duty not only to improve his own condition, but to assist in ameliorating the condition of mankind; and therefore we defend those means which will give the greatest good to the greatest number."

And thus we hear not of Lincoln the president, not of Lincoln the war figure, not of Lincoln the emancipator or the lamented martyr, but of Lincoln the teacher, the far-seeing statesman, the prophet of democracy.

For it was he who taught this nation that while leaders might be faithless and parties might turn from the path of right, still the principles of right and justice and the rights of men would remain and endure to the end. These eternal truths as uttered and lived by him constitute his monument for this and all ages; and the waves of time shall beat against them in vain.

BEN LOMOND NEWS

Mrs. Clara Rogers, formerly of Ben Lomond but now of Oakland, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Mason. She spent Sunday with her boys who are living at the home of J. G. Triplet and returned to her city home Tuesday. Mrs. Rogers was accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Nissen.

Mrs. Jack Hoffman arrived Sunday to join Mr. Hoffman who has been here since January first, having leased Egglanta Ranch.

Mrs. Shebley, of Brookdale, motored to San Francisco Tuesday with Mr. R. T. Lyng, on his return to the United Service Corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Dickinson of Hotel Dickinson, motored to Los Angeles Monday for a stay of a week or two.

Mrs. R. T. Lyng returned from a three week's visit in San Francisco Saturday, having had a very enjoyable time with friends and was one of the number attending the opening of the United Service Restaurant on California Street. Within a few days Mr. and Mrs. Lyng will go to Porterville for a few days visit with their daughter, Mrs. Bullard.

Mrs. W. A. Donaldson and nephew of Oakland, were week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bartlett at Glenn Arbor Orchards. Mrs. Donaldson is a sister of the late Senator Nixon of Nevada.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert O'Rear of Berkeley are rejoicing over the arrival of an eight pound boy. "Billy" Jones is uncle.

Thomas Hessey has sold the Mrs. Frank McCabe property on Railroad avenue to Mr. W. H. Hite of Washington. This was Mr. Hite's first visit to the Santa Cruz Mountains and so well pleased was he that nothing short of owning a home in Ben Lomond was to be considered.

Much Ben Lomond news is left out this week owing to storm delays, etc. Look for it next week.

B. L. I. C. HOLDS MEETING

When people get interested in promoting the welfare of their community a little downpour of rain does not stand in the way of showing that interest when it comes to attending meetings held for the purpose of giving consideration to the best means of progress.

This fact was emphasized last Tuesday evening when a large number of the members of the Ben Lomond Improvement Club braved the elements to be present at the regular Club meeting, which was called to order by the president A. H. Townsend.

Reports of committees were generally favorable, the Light Committee reporting that all requirements had been met and that the matter was in the hands of the supervisors now who after advertising as required by law, will name a date for the people of the lighting district to vote on the matter for a final decision.

Other committees reported progress in the activities being given attention and the matter of organizing a fire department for the town was arranged for by the appointment of a committee ten, so situated as to be able to render efficient first aid in event of their services being needed in a hurry.

So interesting did the meeting become that the hour of eleven was at hand before any thought of adjournment was considered and after the adjournment some time was devoted to a community sing before those present departed for their homes.

PRINTING

Mr. W. E. Roberts, Supervisor of Manual Training, speaking of Printing in the Cleveland Schools, says:

"We now have in operation ten quite complete printing plants in junior and technical high schools, all doing effective work.

"Our purpose in introducing printing into the schools is two-fold; First educational, in providing opportunity for correlation with and expression in other school subjects, and in giving opportunity for service in a great variety of school activities; and second, vocational, in presenting the possibilities of printing as an industry to those who may wish to follow it as life calling. The first is, of course, the important phase of the work, as the number of school children who will eventually become printers is far too small to justify the introduction of the subject into the school curriculum for vocational reasons only."

As a creator of interest in the academic studies nothing excels printing types and a press. They substitute concrete application for abstractness. Nine hundred and eighteen printing outfits installed in public schools attest the educational value of printing.

NOT THE TARGET

A motion-picture company from one of the studios in Los Angeles was out on location. In one of the big scenes some revenue officers with machine guns and sawed-off shotguns were supposed to open fire on the rum smugglers, who were to fire right back again. Finally everything was ready for the action. "Shoot at will" yelled the director. The rattle blank musketry filled the air. A wad whistled past the cameraman's exposed ear, scraps of cartridge material fell at his feet. "Hey there!" he yelled, "The director said to shoot at Will. My name is George!"

WHIST PARTY AT MRS. E. L. GOSLAW'S HOUSE.

Mrs. E. L. Goslaw was hostess at a whist party which was held at her home, for the benefit of St. Michael's Catholic Church, on Friday evening Feb. 3, 1922. There were eight tables and those who participated in the interesting game were: Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Mosher, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clement, Mr. and Mrs. J. Murk, Mr. and Mrs. A. Sweeney, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. J. Gibbs, Mr. and Mrs. J. Holmes, Mrs. Geo. Hickey, Mrs. L. Mann, Mrs. E. R. Longley, Mrs. E. Gervais, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. M. Wood, Mrs. Jas. Maddock, Mrs. O. L. McAbee, Mrs. A. Livermore, Miss George Cunningham, Mrs. M. Funge, Miss Myrtle Livermore, Miss Martha Fitch, Mr. Gus Erickson, Mr. James Beeson, Clyde Hickey, Henry Waters, Otto Holm, Fr. Bailey, Wm. Horstman, and Mr. George Woodard.

Mrs. O. L. McAbee was the highest scorer and received a lovely hand crocheted yoke. Martha Fitch was a game loser and her reward was a string of beads. Mrs. Geo. Hickey was punished with nine sevens for which she was given a box of correspondence cards.

The first gentlemen's prize was awarded to Mr. Fr. Bailey, who scored 159 points. His gift was a gold filled match box and both Mr. Murk and Mr. Mosher found it quite exciting to draw for the booby prize, each scoring the same number of points, but Mr. Murk was the lucky one and was presented with a box of cigarettes.

After the game dainty refreshments were served and every one voted the evening a grand success. Among the spectators were Rev. T. J. O'Brien, Mrs. Blanch Robinson, Mrs. G. L. Woodard, Mr. E. L. Goslaw and master Marshall Mosher. Mrs. Goslaw wishes to thank all those who helped by their attendance and otherwise to make the evening a success.
